Chairman of the Eight-Hour Commitee Would Put His Men Right.

At strike headquarters and elsewhere among those who have followed the situation closely, covering the differ-ences between the job printers and the Typothetae, much purprise was expressed today at the statement given out, reciting the grievances of the employers n that they had previously so studious ly avoided publicity.

Chairman Parsons, of the eight hour committee of the strikers, said that no attempt had been made to induce customers of the Typothetae to take their work elsewhere, which was the chief grievance of that organization. Mr. Parsons gave out the following state-

Says Treasurer Willoughby and Secretary Post Are Living in Government Buildings Without Right.

Mayor Todd, of San Juan, P. R., appearing before the House Committee on Insular Affairs today in favor of the bill to revise the laws of the island, said that Secretary R. H. Post, Treasurer W. F. Willoughby, and other American officers used oGvernment buildings for their private residences, without au-thority of law and without paying rent. The Supreme Court, he said, had to meet in a dismal building sadly in need of repairs.

This law is of nearly as great a revenue to the court as the smoke law, for there is scarcely a cay passes that some Washington contractor is not arraigned for working horses in an unfit condition.

The point for the court to decide was thorize an increase in the capital stock.

Agents as Students.

Agents as Students.

Miss Ida A. Green, general agent of the Associated Charitles, spoke of the District committee as a body of students who from a particular study of individual needs might arrive at general conclusions as to the needs of the community as a whole. It was from the study of such a committee who saw how neach poverty was caused by consumption that the present anti-tuberculosis campaign arose.

Each committee should learn the conditions of its own community which cause sin, disease and poverty, and should consider itself appointed to find a way to change these conditions so that the disease, poverty or sin would not be brought about and increased by the environment of the individuals.

arraigned for working horses in an unfit condition.

The point for the court to decide was whether the simple gall sores on a horse's shoulder were sufficient grounds to bring him into the Police Court on a charge of cruelty to animals. The case of Hiram H. Dyer was the one on trial today. He had engaged counsel to fight, so that the ruling of the court could be had.

Although the court refused to state the exact extent of the injury that was sufficient to unfit a horse for work, he dismissed the case. He made it known to the defendant and his counsel that all means to protect the comfort of the horse must be taken, but that if all of the men who were working horses with gall sores on their shoulders in the District were arrested the Police Court would be working overtime disposing of cases.
